SPECIAL VIP INVITE . . .

Director Robert Connor presents a funny and historical soul stirring stage adaptation of the book Beyond the Glimmering Lights written by Trish Geran. This story is about the spiritual and human price black entertainers and residents paid to help make what the world now calls Sin City, USA.

In 1943,"Aunt Mac" left Mississippi with a map, a flask of moonshine, and a small handgun tucked under a Bible on the front seat of her car for a town she'd heard where black people could find work and it wasn't picking cotton. The town was called Las Vegas.
